Pipeline to be reworked around ancient bones

Near Bethune.
TransGas says dig will back up and go deep, won't disturb site where human remains were found Oct. 15

A major pipeline project in Saskatchewan is to be modified after ancient bones were found at the dig site.

TransGas, the pipeline subsidiary of SaskEnergy, says the redesign will minimize any impact to newly discovered cultural lands near Bethune, northwest of Regina.

"Typically, pipelines are done using a shallow trench and that's about six feet of a hole that is made. The pipeline is lowered in, the ground cover is put back in and on we go," SaskEnergy spokesman Dave Burdeniuk said Thursday.

First Nations consultation

Representatives from Carry the Kettle First Nation and elders from the Nakota Nation were at the site Wednesday for a sacred blessing ritual and to further examine it.

- TransGas said it will work with Chief Barry Kennedy and elders to determine the most appropriate and sensitive way to deal with soil already disturbed.

"We're not going to do that now for the location where the remains were discovered. We're going to back up further away and then we're going to go deep."

The company will use trenchless technology to bore down between depths of nine metres and 45 metres for almost a kilometre underneath the site, Burdeniuk said.

TransGas was installing a transmission pipeline to supply natural gas service to a new potash mine site when bone fragments were unearthed Oct. 15. Archeologists have determined the remains are human and estimate the bones are more than 1,000 years old.

There was no indication before work began that there was anything culturally significant along the pipeline route, said Burdeniuk.

"We knew there were a couple of sites close and those were flagged and the crews were told to avoid those.

"But we had no idea that there were these human remains, so this is a way that we can get the project accomplished, but do it in such a manner that we're not going to disturb the surface or anything that might be remaining still near the surface."

Sask. boarders star in MTV reality show

A tale of two bros. McMorris and McMorris follows brothers Mark and Craig of Saskatchewan as they snowboard around the world

JACOB MORGAN
jacob.morgan@metronews.ca

Mark and Craig McMorris have gone from the flatlands around Regina to some of the tallest mountains around.

And in November, the brothers will reach a new high as their show McMorris and McMorris premieres on MTV Canada.

"I am very excited. We met with Red Bull Media House ... over a year ago and pitched the idea," said Craig, the older McMorris.

"Now that we've filmed all eight episodes, it's pretty crazy and I can't wait for it to go live."

The premise follows Mark and Craig as they head off to different countries and continents, hanging out with friends while going through the rigours of competitive snowboarding.

"Usually when you're travelling for snowboarding, people only see the one run, they don't see all the behind-the-scenes stuff," said Craig.

The locations include Aspen, Colorado for the Ex Games and Cancun, Mexico for spring break.

"We try to keep a really nice balance of staying competitive, staying sharp and staying in shape, but also having a little bit of fun," he said.

Both brothers have made big names for themselves, as Craig has boarded on the Canadian national team and Mark has won high-profile contests.

Craig said the series is a great opportunity to demonstrate their skills and represent their hometown.

"We get to show the world this is our home, this is what can come out of Saskatchewan and it's one of the most beautiful places on the Earth," he said.

McMorris and McMorris premieres Friday, Nov. 1 at 9 p.m. EST.

Woman uploads rape accusation to YouTube

Plea for recognition. Local woman claims two coworkers have been tormenting her

JACOB MORGAN
jacob.morgan@metronews.ca

In a video uploaded to YouTube on Tuesday, 29-year-old Saskatoon woman Rebecca Campbell levels accusations of sexual assault and rape against her coworkers at a local restaurant.

Campbell claims the ordeal began 10 years ago after an acquaintance violated her.

"We had been at a party together, and at the time I was actually homeless," Campbell told Metro. "He had offered to let me crash on his couch for a couple days, so I left the party with him, and he attacked me and raped me."

Though she said she originally went to the police, she feels she was dismissed.

This fall the pain resurfaced, Campbell said, when the perpetrator popped up as a delivery driver at her job.

"I had cut him out of my life," she said. "It was after I had requested that (he) not be sent while I was working that the harassment ramped up."

Views

20,000

The video has received more than 20,000 views since it was uploaded on Tuesday

Another driver who was friends with the alleged rapist began to torment her, said Campbell.

"He came up behind me and reached around my body, grabbed the box that I was holding with one hand and my breast with the other," she said.

Campbell said she went to the police on Oct. 6, and her complaint fell on deaf ears. So she took to the Internet to make her voice heard.

Alyson Edwards, spokeswoman for the Saskatoon Police Service, said that upon seeing the video, a staff sergeant from the sex-crimes division contacted Campbell.

"We wanted to reach out to her right away," said Edwards.

In addition to the criminal investigation, police are undertaking an internal review to find out exactly what happened when Campbell came to the station earlier this month.

Long-term care. NDP criticize 2011 removal of minimum-care hours

The Opposition is accusing the Saskatchewan government of changing long-term care rules that address "sufficient staff" numbers.

In the first question period of the new session at the legislature, NDP Leader Cam Broten said the government removed a regulation that said nursing home residents should get "at least two hours" of staff time per day.

"Let's be clear, other provinces have minimum care standards of 3.6 or 3.8 hours per resident, per day," Broten said Thursday.

The regulations were changed in 2011.

Health Minister Dustin Duncan says the regulations were decades old and spoke to a time when long-term care residents didn't need as much medical help.

Duncan says he thinks residents get more care when it's tailored to them — not just the minimum hours.

The NDP also raised concerns that health regions are listing some tasks, such as baths and linen changes, as discretionary if they are forced to work short-staffed.

Murder case. Fingerprint points no finger: Lawyer

The lawyer for an American accused of killing a Saskatoon woman and injuring her boyfriend says tests on a fingerprint found at the crime scene were inconclusive.

Morris Bodnar was granted an adjournment in his client George Allgood's trial last month to re-test the print.

Bodnar said in Court of Queen's Bench in Saskatoon that the sample wasn't good enough to conclude whether it may be that of another person.

It was previously determined that the fingerprint did not belong to Allgood.

The defence is calling no further evidence, and the Crown will present rebuttal evidence on Monday.

Allgood, a 48-year-old from Baltimore, is charged with the first-degree murder of Susan Reinhardt — the mother of his son — and the attempted murder of her boyfriend, David Ristow.

The couple was shot in the bedroom of their home in City Park on July 15, 2006.

Woman, teen boy arrested over armed robbery

A 34-year-old woman and a 15-year-old boy wanted in an armed robbery in southeastern Saskatchewan have been arrested.

Police in Saskatoon say the pair was discovered when officers were called to an apartment building on Wednesday to check on another woman.

She was safe.

Officers realized that a second woman and a teen, who were also in the apartment, were suspects in the robbery of a business in Yorkton.

They will be transported to Yorkton to face charges.

B.C. trailer-park nightmare finally over for one resident

'Overjoyed.' Stephen Chalmers has a new home thanks to donors from across the country

KATE WEBB
Metro in Vancouver

Stephen Chalmers relaxes in his new 1999 trailer with his dog, Spaghetti, after surviving nearly six weeks in a Surrey, B.C., trailer park with no power.
JENNIFER GAUTHIER/METRO

As Stephen Chalmers stepped into his bright, spacious, new 1999 fifth-wheel in Langley, B.C., on Thursday, he went silent and just took it all in.

Then, he burst into tears.

"I live in a palace," he said, his voice quivering with relief after having survived nearly six weeks in a run-down Surrey trailer park without power.

Chalmers, who suffers from multiple mental illnesses including depression, was pushed to his limit when the landlord, K.B. Properties, failed to hire a health-and-safety co-ordinator for the demolition of the neighbouring Beladean Motel.

The demolition crew hit live hydro wires, and ever since then the Beladean Trailer Park has been running on unreliable generators — and even those the landlord failed to provide until the city got involved.

Chalmers wanted to leave, but his leaky 1989 trailer was too old and broken down to be accepted at most other trailer parks.

Realizing how desperate the situation was, his sister, Marilyn Chase, started a crowdfunding campaign on Fundrazr.com with Metro's assistance.

Within five days the campaign hit its goal of $5,000. Metro then partnered with the Travelhome trailer dealership in Langley, plus a very generous anonymous donor who heard Chalmers' story on Classic Rock 101 and offered another $5,000, to buy him a refurbished, family-sized 26-foot trailer.

On Thursday Travelhome staff also surprised Chalmers, who lives on disability, with plenty of home furnishings, such as pots and pans, towels, bedding and gift certificates for groceries.

"I'm overwhelmed, overjoyed, ecstatically happy," Chalmers said, before adding he wanted to send a message to the donors across the country and as far away as Norway who made it all possible.

Chalmers' message to donors

"I don't pass out the word love very often, but the amount of love that you people showed me is overwhelming, and for that I thank you and I love you." Stephen Chalmers

Chalmers has found a new, quiet trailer park to live in, and is thrilled that he will be reunited with his beloved shih tzu, Spaghetti. He has been unable to live with her for the past two years because his old, leaky trailer wasn't safe for her.

"It means that I'm not totally alone," he said. "The love that that dog shows me is absolutely undying and unconditional."

Several local politicians, including two members of provincial parliament and Surrey city councillor Barinder Rasode, showed up to the key handover to wish Chalmers well, and to promise him they will continue to fight for harsher penalties for negligent landlords.

"As we head into the winter and you look at serious issues like people not having electricity or heat, we are working on it right away," said Rasode.

"We're hoping in the next couple of weeks that we'll have a recommendation (on tougher bylaws) from our bylaws department."

Others still without power

Eight residents with nowhere else to go still live at the Beladean Trailer Park in Surrey, which has been running on generators for nearly six weeks since an inadequately supervised motel demolition knocked the power out on Sept. 14.

- Program manager of emergency shelter Hyland House Peter Fedos conducts homeless outreach in the area on behalf of B.C. Housing.
- He said the city, the Ministry of Social Development, and Options Community Services, of which Hyland House is a part, are in constant contact about the situation.
- "Everyone is trying to ease the stress occurring for the residents at the trailer park," he said.
- "The Hyland House Mobile Outreach team is working with people there to see if we can get them re-housed in collaboration with B.C. Housing and everyone who is at the table supporting us."

Abduction case sends aftershock

Roma. Negative reporting on minorities has re-emerged via recent cases: Council of Europe's Commissioner for Human Rights

A Roma woman in Bulgaria has undergone DNA testing and faces preliminary charges of child selling as authorities investigate if she is the mother of a young girl found living with an unrelated couple in Greece, authorities said Thursday.

Though the tests have yet to prove Sasha Ruseva, 35, is the biological mother of the girl known as "Maria," the woman's admission that she once left a baby behind in Greece opened her up to a formal investigation.

Ruseva acknowledged to Bulgarian TV that she had been questioned about the girl, believed to be five or six years old, who was found during a raid for drugs and weapons in a Roma camp in central Greece last week. Ruseva said she gave birth to a girl while working as an olive picker in Greece.

The child's case gained global notice.

Ruseva said she wanted the girl back if tests prove she is the girl's mother.

But she denied taking any money for giving up her baby to another Roma family years ago.

The preliminary charges filed against her allow authorities to start an investigation into whether money changed hands for the child.

Greek authorities took custody of "Maria" after a prosecutor present during the camp raid noticed the blond, blue-eyed and pale-skinned girl looked nothing like the couple raising her.

A DNA test confirmed she was not related to them.

Ruseva said she recognized the Greek Roma couple in the "Maria" case as the same people with whom she left her child. Ruseva said she gave birth to a girl while working as an olive picker in Greece "several years ago," but that she had to leave the child because she didn't have enough money to take her home.

Ruseva has had eight children. "I intended to go back and take my child home, but meanwhile I gave birth to two more kids so I was not able to go back," Ruseva said on Bulgarian TV, insisting that she did not get paid for giving up the girl. The "Maria" case has spurred concerns about child trafficking within the Roma community. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Child trafficking?

The "Maria" case has spurred concerns about child trafficking within the Roma community, and cries of racism as well. In an episode apparently inspired by the Greek case, two young blond, blue-eyed children were taken by police in Ireland from their Roma parents, who had different complexions. But the girl and boy were returned to their families Wednesday after DNA tests determined the children were rightfully theirs. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Madeleine McCann case reopened

Portugal's public broadcaster says prosecutors are reopening the police investigation into the disappearance of British child Madeleine McCann, after a review of evidence found new leads in the case.

The public prosecutor decided to reopen the case after "new indications" emerged, though the prosecutor gave no details in a report seen on Radiotelevisao Portuguesa.

The case was closed in 2008 because no crime was detected.

The girl vanished during a family vacation in southern Portugal's Algarve region in May 2007, just before her fourth birthday.

A team of detectives from northern Portugal began reviewing the evidence two years ago.

British police have also been sifting through the case files and said they have identified new avenues of investigation. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Spy charges shake U.S. alliances

Reaction from Europe. Leaders denounce Obama administration over eavesdropping allegations

European leaders united in anger Thursday as they attended a summit overshadowed by reports of widespread U.S. spying on its allies — allegations German Chancellor Angela Merkel said had shattered trust in the Obama administration and undermined the crucial trans-Atlantic relationship.

The latest revelations that the U.S. National Security Agency swept up more than 70 million phone records in France and may have tapped Merkel's own cellphone brought denunciations from the French and German governments.

Merkel's unusually stern remarks as she arrived at the European Union gathering indicated she wasn't placated by a phone conversation she had Wednesday with President Barack Obama, or his personal assurances that the U.S. is not listening in on her calls now.

Other leaders arriving for the 28-nation meeting echoed Merkel's displeasure. Swedish Prime Minister Fredrik Reinfeldt called it "completely unacceptable" for a country to eavesdrop on an allied leader.

Echoing Merkel, Austria's foreign minister, Micheal Spindelegger, said, "We need to re-establish with the U.S. a relationship of trust, which has certainly suffered from this." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Mothers aim to set breastfeeding record

Filipino mothers breastfeed their babies during a mass breastfeeding program organized by the non-government organization Nurturers of the Earth and the city of Marikina to promote lactation by mothers instead of infant formula milk at Marikina, east of Manila, on Thursday. More than 500 lactating mothers took part in the program, which is also being held in other key sites nationwide in an attempt to make it to the Guinness World Record with the "most number of breastfeeding activity simultaneously held in multiple sites." Russia. FBI investigates culture-exchange official

Russia on Thursday angrily dismissed espionage accusations against a Russian cultural-exchange official in Washington, saying the U.S. claims were unfounded.

The FBI is looking into whether Yury Zaytsev, the head of a Russian government-run cultural exchange program, tried to recruit young Americans as intelligence assets, a U.S. intelligence official told The Associated Press. The official spoke on condition of anonymity because the probe was still underway.

The magazine Mother Jones first reported the story.

The Russian Foreign Ministry said it was "bewildered" by the reports and said the "fabrications they contained had nothing to do with the reality."

Zaytsev dismissed the accusations as an attempt to hurt ties between Moscow and Washington. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Flu season. B.C. upholds policy requiring health workers to wear masks

A British Columbia health-care workers union has lost its grievance against a provincial policy requiring members to get a flu shot or wear a mask during flu season — a development that may embolden other provinces to follow suit.

An arbitrator appointed by the provincial Labour Relations Board ruled the policy is reasonable, and a valid exercise of the employer's management rights.

"Health-care workers do not have to immunize; they have a choice to immunize or mask during the influenza season," Robert Diebolt wrote in his decision, dated Wednesday.

"As to the mask, I am unable to characterize it as an invasive procedure. The union also characterizes a mask as stigmatizing. I am unable to agree."

The ruling upholding the B.C. policy is being closely scrutinized by lawyers for the union that brought the action, the B.C. Health Sciences Association.

In coming days, the ruling will also be studied by public-health authorities across the country, some of whom are mulling over adopting similar actions in their jurisdictions.

The chairman of the Council of Chief Medical Officers of Health, Dr. Robert Strang, said his provincial and territorial counterparts have been following the B.C. policy roll out closely.

"I think today's events … create the possibility of other jurisdictions — whether it's provinces or individual health authorities — now feeling they can move ahead in this area," Strang said from Halifax, where he is Nova Scotia's chief medical officer of health.

Ongoing scandal shows deep rifts in Tory ranks

Getting nasty.
Debate continues to rage over bid to oust disgraced senators Duffy, Wallin and Brazeau — and now it's personal

Sen. Pamela Wallin is surrounded by security as she arrives at the Senate on Parliament Hill on Thursday.
ADRIAN WYLD/THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Harper government's bid for summary execution of senators Mike Duffy, Pamela Wallin and Patrick Brazeau has turned into an agonizingly slow soap opera that is exposing a nasty — and increasingly personal — family feud within the Conservative caucus.

Debate over government motions to suspend, without pay, the three erstwhile Conservatives continued to rage in the Senate for the third straight day — with no end in sight.

Thursday's debate saw Marjory LeBreton, former government leader in the Senate, fire back at Duffy for alleging she was part of a "monstrous" conspiracy to intimidate him into accepting a secret deal to pay back ineligible expenses or face being disqualified from sitting in the Senate.

She variously described Duffy's claims as "utterly preposterous," "blatant falsehood" and "stretching credulity."

And, although LeBreton didn't directly question Prime Minister Stephen Harper's judgment in appointing Duffy to the upper chamber, she revealed that she was never a fan of the former broadcast journalist, who hosted a daily show on federal politics until his elevation to the Senate in 2009.

"I sometimes found myself … frustrated by his style of journalism, trading as he did, more often than not, on gossip and the latest hot rumour," LeBreton told the upper chamber.

"And sometimes I was so disgusted that I felt like putting my foot through the television set."

When anyone complained, Duffy would say, "It's showbiz," LeBreton said, implying that Duffy has taken the same approach to justifying his role in the Senate expenses scandal.

'We have very good due process'

Government Senate leader Claude Carignan admitted the debate over the suspension motions could drag on into next week. But he said that's proof that the three senators are getting a fair hearing.

- Duffy, Wallin and Brazeau have had the opportunity to spend "a very long time" to give their side of the story, and other senators are being allowed to freely air their views, Carignan said.
- "If somebody thinks we don't have due process here, sorry, but we have very good due process," Carignan added

Kristopher David Barwell had pleaded guilty to causing injury, wounding or maiming an animal.

When veterinarians first saw Zeus, a border collie, they thought it might not survive.

The dog's hips were broken, there were maggot-infested wounds all over its body and two bullets were found in his thigh and tail.

After extensive treatment that included two artificial hips, the dog was given a new lease on life and a new family.

Senate

Reform plan ruled unconstitutional

The Harper government's most recent attempt at Senate reform has been declared unconstitutional in a stinging court ruling rendered Thursday.

The Quebec Court of Appeal has released an opinion that the federal government had no right, under Bill C-7, to create Senate elections and set term limits without seeking provincial approval.

It says the fathers of Confederation considered the role and function of the Senate in great detail, and the conditions they drew up were essential to uniting the provinces under one country.

Couple who starved boy didn't concern aid worker, inquest hears

Margarita Quintana doesn't recall many details about the case of Jeffrey Baldwin, a five-year-old boy who starved to death at the hands of his grandparents 11 years ago.

But what the frontline children's aid worker does remember is that the boy's grandmother, Elva Bottineau, appeared at the time as a reliable pillar of support at the centre of a troubled family.

Speaking softly, with multiple pauses for thought, Quintana repeatedly told an inquest into Jeffrey's death Thursday she had no concerns about Bottineau, which was why she never carried out a records check on the grandparents.

"They were highly involved with the family. They were always concerned about the children," said Quintana, who's now retired from the Catholic Children's Aid Society.

The inquest has heard that both Bottineau and her partner Norman Kidman had a history of child abuse, including convictions and various dealings with the children's aid society.

But a lack of records checks meant children's aid workers didn't look through their own files to discover details of the pair's past until after Jeffrey's death.

Jeffrey was so severely starved at the end of his life that he couldn't lift his own head. He was just 21 pounds when he died in November, 2002 — about as much as he weighed on his first birthday.

The inquest has heard how Bottineau and Kidman kept Jeffrey and one of his sisters locked away in a cold, filthy room, where they were left to urinate and defecate and then forced to clean up their own mess.

But to Quintana, more than a decade ago Bottineau and Kidman appeared to present a better care alternative than Jeffrey's parents, who were described as a young "high-risk" pair who struggled with domestic violence issues.

Anti-government ideology becoming a growing concern

Sovereign citizens?
Libertarian-inspired philosophy said to pose threat to officer and public safety

A Calgary police van remains in front of a rental home that a Freeman-on-the-Land follower had claimed as an embassy in September. BILL GRAVELAND/THE CANADIAN PRESS

Training for frontline officers and better information sharing between police and government agencies can help protect law enforcement officials from potentially aggressive "sovereign citizens," says a newly declassified briefing to Canadian police chiefs.

The presentation, prepared for a meeting of the Canadian Association of Chiefs of Police, calls the libertarian-inspired philosophy "a growing concern" that poses a "threat to officer and public safety."

Enforcement agencies are becoming increasingly wary of sovereign citizens, members of the Freeman-on-the-Land movement and other like-minded people who resist police and government authority. Adherents say they shun violence and merely want to live free of government-imposed shackles.

However, police say those who espouse the ideology have been involved in numerous violent encounters with law-enforcement and government employees in the United States and, to a lesser extent, in Canada. Freemen commonly claim they do not require a driver's licence, insurance or vehicle registration, police say. And advocates frequently assert a right to have weapons for self-protection, among other things.

Loblaw joins Primark in paying out victims

Damage control. After deadly factory collapse in Bangladesh, where Joe Fresh produced clothes, company pledges to help workers and families

Grocery giant Loblaw Companies Ltd. says it will provide long-term financial assistance to the victims and families affected by a deadly factory collapse in Bangladesh in April.

The company said Thursday the compensation will go to those who worked at the New Wave Style factory, which produced clothing for Loblaw's Joe Fresh clothing line. The company will also pay three months in wages to workers until the longer-term funds kick in.

The New Wave Style factory was one of five manufacturing plants in the Dhaka plaza that collapsed, killing more than 1,100 workers on April 24.

Loblaw did not disclose the total compensation amount.

In addition, the company has joined with British clothing retailer Primark to provide financial assistance to workers of all retailers in the factory plaza.

Stepping up

"Should the other brands not step forward and join in this funding, we will join Primark and immediately contribute to the payment of three months' wages for the approximately 3,600 individuals."

Bob Chant, Loblaw's senior vice-president of corporate affairs and communications

"Should the other brands not step forward and join in this funding, we will join Primark and immediately contribute to the payment of three months' wages for the approximately 3,600 individuals involved, regardless of the brand apparel that was being produced in their workplace," said Bob Chant, Loblaw's senior vice-president of corporate affairs and communications.

The company has previously donated $1 million to Save the Children Bangladesh and the Centre for Rehabilitation of the Paralysed, to help those in the country's garment industry.

Third-quarter earnings

Potash Corp. hit hard by weaker prices, lower sales

Potash Corp. is reporting third-quarter earnings of 41 cents per share on $356 million in net earnings.

That's down from 74 cents per share, or $645 million, in the same period last year as a result of weaker prices and lower potash sales volumes.

The Saskatoon-based company says offshore investments in Jordan, Chile and Israel contributed $85 million to earnings for the quarter.

But PotashCorp says while the need for crop nutrition fuelled strong demand in the first half of 2013, a change in strategy by Uralkali in July stalled global demand.

Key markets — particularly large buyers in China and India — delayed purchases or were reluctant to accept major shipments against existing contracts.

As a result, shipments from North American producers fell to one of the lowest third-quarter totals in recent history.

PotashCorp says buyer caution and competitive pressures resulted in a price of $307 per tonne in the quarter, down from $429 in the same period last year. As a result the company, has revised its 2013 potash gross margin forecast range to $1.5-$1.7 billion on expected shipments of 8 million and 8.4 million tonnes. THE CANADIAN PRESS

The first class of Schwarzman Scholars will study there in 2016.

The Illegal Eater. He sang about loving Kraft Dinner, now he's a foodie on TV

RYAN TUMILTY
Metro in Edmonton

Former Barenaked Ladies front man Steven Page is trading his guitar for a fork in a new television series that looks at the shady world of food.

The show, The Illegal Eater, which airs Tuesdays on the Travel and Escape channel, is an exploration of the slightly shady, just-below-board eateries in North American cities.

Page said when he was first approached about the show he thought it would be an opportunity to try television while still staying close to something he cares about.

"I still identify as a musician," he said. "I am not a reporter. I am not a journalist. I am an entertainer, and food is kind of my comfort zone. Outside of music it is what I care about."

The show looks at supper clubs and other underground eateries that feel part speakeasy and part haute cuisine.

Page said initially he thought filming an illegal eatery would be a real challenge, but he hasn't found it to be a problem.

"I was surprised at how many people were quite willing to let us in," he said.

He said most of the places they profiled were willing to be filmed, because they accepted being shut down as part of the business.

"We talked to some people who had been shut down several times and just kept moving," he said.

SCENE

Synopsis

In Cormac 'No Country for Old Men' McCarthy's screenwriting debut, The Counselor, he tells a gritty story of a greedy lawyer (Michael Fassbender) in over his head after dipping his toe in the narcotics trade with drug lord Reiner (Javier Bardem) and his sociopath girlfriend Malkina (Cameron Diaz). When the deal — smuggling 625 kilos of cocaine from Mexico to Chicago — goes south, the counselor finds his life swirling out of control. Spiraling around this grim vortex are womanizing middle-man Westray (Brad Pitt), prison inmate Ruth (Rosie Perez) and the counselor's long-distance girlfriend Laura (Penélope Cruz).

RICHARD CROUSE AND MARK BRESLIN

Less talk, more action

The Counselor.
Existential speeches bog down a promising dark crime drama

Richard: Mark, The Counselor is the feel bad movie of the year. Bleak and hopeless, it's a crime drama that examines the reasons and consequences of crime instead of focusing on the crime itself. It's a stylish cautionary tale about the worst of human behaviour driven by greed, lust and hubris; a non-action, action movie where most of the fireworks are in McCarthy's dialogue. Luckily actors like Bardem, Pitt and Fassbender are there to keep the fuse lit. What did you make of it?

Mark: I'm convinced there's a decent movie embedded in this overstuffed, overwritten film. First, let's take out all the portentous, existential speeches delivered by even the most tangential characters. Then, we could cut about two-thirds of Michael Fassbender's pained reaction shots. He looks like he's got indigestion after being force-fed the script. Oh, and get rid of the opening soft-core scene between him and Penélope Cruz. Then, there might be a grimly sardonic movie on the order of No Country for Old Men. But as it is, I could only enjoy it for the acting, the scenery, and Bardem's collection of 80's Versace shirts.

RC: I liked it more than you, but only by one of Javier Bardem's crazy Brian Grazier hairs. Talky to the extreme, the entire movie is built around dialogue that sounds like it flowed from the hardest boiled crime writer out there, which I guess McCarthy is now that Elmore Leonard is working from his celestial typewriter. Catch phrases abound — "You don't know someone until you know what they want," for example — but it is wordy. Sometimes brilliantly so, but the pacing, particularly in the first hour, will be thought of as hypnotic by some, slow by others. My main disappointment was Diaz, who I didn't think could deliver the dialogue. You?

MB: Diaz was OK because she looked the part and that got her through some clunky line readings. But back to the script... the plot is revealed slowly, in layers, which will not be to everyone's liking. You just know you are in the company of some very bad people; you're just not sure why. This mysteriousness kept me interested for awhile; then I started counting the speaking parts and calculating the budget. Even at scale, it must have mounted up. And semi-famous actors keep showing up for only one scene, never to be seen again, like Ruben Blades. And Richard, was that John Leguizamo in an uncredited scene?

RC: Yes! It's cameo city!

MB: Fits right in with the movie's aesthetic of more is more.

Comedy

Bad Grandpa

Director. Jeff Tremaine

Stars. Johnny Knoxville, Jackson Nicoll

It's juvenile and tasteless but let's not pretend the stunts the Jackass team cook up aren't daring. In Bad Grandpa, Jackass mastermind Johnny Knoxville spins a narrative into the mix, playing a sex-obsessed octogenarian who teams up with his pre-pubescent grandson to pull provocative pranks on the unsuspecting public. Although the "story" ultimately suffers on behalf of the gags, Knoxville and young Jackson Nicoll are extraordinary, especially when they push buttons in a little miss princess pageant.

STEVE GOW

Action/Drama

All is Lost

Director. J.C. Chandor

Stars. Robert Redford

Robert Redford plays a sailor on a solo yacht trip on the Indian Ocean. When his boat collides with an abandoned shipping container he must use all his resources to survive. The actor is in every frame of this film and although he only speaks a dozen or so lines, manages to create a compelling persona of a man hell bent on survival against increasingly difficult odds. All is Lost is more audacious than it is entertaining, but it showcases Redford's effortless star power. Alone and figuratively naked, he holds the screen for the entire 106 minutes.

RICHARD CROUSE

Comedy

Haute Cuisine

Director. Christian Vincent

Stars. Catherine Frot

Hortense (Frot) was once the private chef of the President of France. Now, she prepares meals for a bunch of unruly scientists at a research base in Antarctica. So what caused the celebrated chef to move to a frozen food desert? That's never satisfactorily answered. Flashbacks of her time at the Élysée Palace detail power struggles, but all this seems outweighed by Hortense's love of preparing French cuisine. The film could do with a little more explanation and fewer close-ups of her (albeit mouth-watering) culinary creations. REGAN REID

Comedy/Romance

Austenland

Director. Jerusha Hess

Stars. Keri Russell, Jane Seymour

Fandom makes people do weird things. In Austenland, Jane Hayes (Keri Russell) blows her savings on a Jane Austen "experience" run by Jane Seymour in a bid to meet her own Mr. Darcy. Predictably, things don't pan out and Jane finds herself caught in a modern Pride and Prejudice situation, held back by her social status and falling for the wrong guy. It's a clever setup, but writer-director Jerusha Hess can't seem to break out of the rote romantic-comedy box. Worse, the jokes fail to yield any laughs.

I'm a Rocket Man. Tom Hardy to play Elton John in planned biopic

Tom Hardy will play Elton John in a biopic titled Rocketman.

Focus Features announced Hardy's casting as the iconic piano man on Wednesday. The film is planned to begin shooting late next year.

The 36-year-old British actor is well respected for his wide-ranging talent, but his brawny, tattooed frame makes him an unconventional choice. Hardy is most famous for playing the terrorist Bane in The Dark Knight Rises. He has showcased a muscled masculinity in films like Warrior, Lawless and Bronson.

Rocketman is being made with the co-operation of the 66-year-old John, who's an executive producer on the film.

Hailee Steinfeld. After an Oscar nom, True Grit actress has been choosing her roles wisely

NED EHRBAR
Metro World News in Hollywood

Hailee Steinfeld, left, stars in Ender's Game, which opens next Friday. CONTRIBUTED

Since getting Hollywood's attention — and an Oscar nomination — for True Grit in 2010, 16-year-old Hailee Steinfeld has kept some impressive momentum going. This fall, she debuted Can a Song Save Your Life at the Toronto International Film Festival before seeing Romeo and Juliet hit theatres. Now she co-stars in the long-awaited film adaptation of the science-fiction novel Ender's Game.

It's still early in your career, but you're making some great choices.

There's really been no specific method in terms of picking roles or any of that. I find that everything that I've done has been so different from the last, and I think that's a reason why I love that and I'm attracted to certain roles. But it's a process that involves my agents and my parents, so there's a lot of filtering before it gets to me. It comes down to just sort of loving the idea and loving the whole story and wanting to be a part of it.

You're also doing a lot of adaptations, which is becoming a common theme.

Yes! Which again is not necessarily intentional but really helpful. I always find it interesting when some actors don't read the book (something is based on) — which is starting to make more sense to me given the fact that you're given a script to make a movie, and it may or may not have anything to do with the book. I remember when I shot True Grit, the fact that it was a book and had been done before was huge for me and it helped me so much. And then with Romeo and Juliet and Ender's Game, it's just a couple hundred extra pages of knowledge.

With Ender's Game, some viewers seem to be looking for a love story between Asa Butterfield's characters yours and where there isn't one. Is that frustrating?

Yeah, right? I know. I think in some ways it's expected. But the beauty of the relationship is that there's no pressure in terms of liking each other or any of that. They don't have to fall in love to trust each other. There doesn't have to be any of that. They have a really great friendship, which I think is really special. And again, they're in Battle School. People aren't secretly going out, there's none of that happening. There's no place to go, there's nothing to do, you're under strict rules and you're away from your family so all you really want is a friend.

You make Battle School sound almost like a film set.

Yeah, totally! (laughs) No, it's really interesting how that crossed over to our lives, being away from home and working however long each day. We were getting up at 7 a.m. for boot camp and all that stuff, but we had a really good time.

What happens to actors in Vegas stays in Vegas (mostly)

Jerry Ferrara. Unless Robert De Niro beats you up. Then you can talk about it. The Entourage star chats about working in the desert

NED EHRBAR
Metro World News in Hollywood

Jerry Ferrara swears it's a coincidence that his post-Entourage acting career keeps bringing him back to Las Vegas — not that he's complaining. Ferrara hits the bachelor party circuit in Last Vegas and next spring's Think Like a Man Too. And he's starting to feel like a local.

You've got two movies coming up set in Las Vegas. How much more fun or more difficult is it to film there?

You know what? Look, Vegas is obviously a really fun place to spend your time. There is a big difference in going there for two or three days and then living there for two or three months. I don't know why the stars are kind of lining up and bringing me back there to work — not saying that I don't appreciate it. I love it, but it's just weird. It's a crazy experience to actually get used to a routine in Vegas — getting on the elevator at 5 a.m. to go to work when most people are coming home; going through a full day and then you kind of come home from work; you have some dinner and you're like, "Oh, I'm going to read a book or my script for tomorrow and go to sleep." I didn't experience that in my younger years, so it's weird. "I'm going to wake up and go for a run at 5 a.m. in the desert."

People do actually live there and work there.

Exactly! At one point I started saying to myself, "You know what? I could live here. I could see myself living here." There's definitely a lot to do, as long as you keep the gambling in check (laughs). You can have a nice little life over there.

In Last Vegas, you get laid out by Robert De Niro. Is it easier on your pride to take getting decked by a senior citizen when it's De Niro?

I don't think anybody — especially any guy who fancies himself as even being a little bit tough — wants to get beat up in a movie. But I can't think of a better person in the world — like if you literally gave me a choice and said, "Jerry, you're going to have to get knocked out in this movie. You can cast anyone you want to knock you out," De Niro would be the guy I would say. I'm pretty lucky in the sense that my first on-screen knockout punch is by Robert frigging De Niro.

What will Oscar bring this year?

Oscar season officially kicked off last month at the Toronto International Film Festival, and Hollywood has wasted no time pushing their awards favourites in theatres and at the remaining fall festivals, but most of the buzzed-about films have still yet to hit screens. That means it's time for one of the industry's favourite pastimes: rampant speculation. Here's where we think the nominations will land — assuming Martin Scorsese gets his Wolf of Wall Street ready in time.

Best picture

For possibly the first year since the Academy expanded the big category to up to 10 nominations, it might actually be tough to pick just 10. But for us, it doesn't matter what other films get nods since 12 Years a Slave has it in the bag already.

- 12 Years a Slave — projected winner
- Gravity
- Dallas Buyers Club
- Nebraska
- Captain Phillips
- Wolf of Wall Street
- Inside Llewyn Davis
- American Hustle
- Secret Life of Walter Mitty

Best actor

We've already seen some fantastic performances this year, with more on the way, but the stars are aligned for Matthew McConaughey following a string of great, risky performances over the past two years leading up to his amazing work in Dallas Buyers Club.

- Matthew McConaughey, Dallas Buyers Club — projected winner
- Chiwetel Ejiofor,12 Years a Slave
- Hugh Jackman, Prisoners
- Leonardo DiCaprio, Wolf of Wall Street
- Ben Stiller, Secret Life of Walter Mitty

Best actress

Sandra Bullock is an easy favourite for the nerve-wracking Gravity, but we're hoping Academy voters have long enough memories to finally give Cate Blanchett her due for her work in Woody Allen's latest.

- Sandra Bullock, Gravity
- Cate Blanchett, Blue Jasmine — projected winner
- Judi Dench, Philomena
- Meryl Streep, August: Osage County
- Kate Winslet, Labor Day

Are Pattinson and Stewart hooking up on the DL?

Maybe things aren't so over between Robert Pattinson and Kristen Stewart after all. The Twilight co-stars, who officially split up five months ago, have reportedly been seeing each other on the sly, according to Life & Style magazine. "They've always had a passion for each other, so even though the relationship didn't work out, they still hook up when they're in L.A.," a source says. "Rob doesn't see a future with Kristen at this point in time, but he likes to hook up with her. He's made it clear that they are not exclusive."

Busy schedules end Evans and Kelly part two

Chris Evans and girlfriend Minka Kelly have reportedly split up — again. The couple first dated in 2007 and reunited last year, but their busy work schedules made the relationship impossible, according to Us Weekly. "It didn't make sense for them to be together right now," a source says. Kelly has been filming the TV series Almost Human in Vancouver, while Evans has been wrapping up his second Captain America movie and prepping his directorial debut, 1:30 Train.

Eastwood's wife finally seeks divorce

After a false alarm last month, Clint Eastwood's wife, Dina, has filed for divorce from the 83-year-old actor and director, seeking to end their 17-year marriage, according to TMZ. In court documents filed in Monterey, Calif., this week, Dina cites "irreconcilable differences" as the reason for their breakup and is seeking physical custody of their 16-year-old daughter, Morgan. Last month, Dina filed for a legal separation from Clint but withdrew the petition two days later.

Lindsay Lohan

Lindsay Lohan's behaviour over the past week has been raising eyebrows, leading skeptics to suspect the effects of her court-ordered 90-day rehab stint may have worn off, but her dad, Michael Lohan, insists all is well. "I've seen and speak to Lindsay constantly, and every time I do she is clear of mind, and by no means do I have any suspicion of her relapsing in any way," he tells Radar Online. "Maybe she goes out at night, but who doesn't? She's up in the morning and she's doing the right thing."

OUR TAKE ON THE WORLD OF CELEBRITIES

The Word

50 Shades has its brand new Christian Grey: Jamie Dornan

Wait, Jamie who?
Dornan.

Oh, from Game of Thrones?
No, from Once Upon a Time, that TV series with fairy tale characters. He played the Hunstman in the Enchanted Forest and Sheriff Graham in Storybrooke, the show's alternative universe.

Where else have I seen him?
Possibly Marie Antoinette, if you were one of the six people who saw that. Or from magazine ads. He was a Calvin Klein model and the face (and body) of Dior Homme. But British audiences know the 31-year-old as the serial killer on The Fall, a hit BBC series starring Gillian Anderson. And gossip fans know him as Keira Knightley's ex. They dated for two years.

So how'd he get cast as Christian Grey?
He has abs. He has experience (sexing up the lady mayor on Once). And he probably came cheap. Sons of Anarchy star Charlie Hunnam, who has a higher profile, was reportedly to be paid only $125,000 before he dropped out. Expect Dornan to get that or less.

Word is he's Northern Irish. Does he have a sexy accent?
A bit.

So is he single?
Alas, no. He's married to singer Amelia Warner, who records under the name Slow Moving Millie. They're expecting a child soon.

And does Twitter approve?
It's early. Fans are probably still busy Google Image-searching his name to form an opinion. But the popular @BieberSuperArmy account was among the first to weigh in with: "This will be Christian Grey, his name is Jamie Dornan, let's take a moment to thank God." METRO

LIQUID ASSETS

For winemakers, fall is all about harvesting. Brewers, meanwhile, turn to the creation of limited edition craft ales — many of which take their names and flavour cues from the season.

Local brews are hotter than Hades, with their fans applying a reverence for their stylistic differences that's arguably surpassed only by those who appreciate fine wine.

What gives beer the edge when it comes to the "cool factor" is that consumer attitude regarding adding flavour elements to beer is much more open minded than those of their counterparts in the wine world.

That gives breweries carte blanche to add inspiration to their autumn ales, with many focusing on October's official gourd — the pumpkin.

The output of most small, regional breweries is sold close to home, so visit them, or hit your local retailer, to see what's being brewed in your own backyard.

Montreal's McAuslan Brewing's St-Ambroise Citrouille The Great Pumpkin Ale (4 by 341 ml, $9.95 - $10.95) is available across the country.

Infused with cinnamon, ginger, nutmeg, clove and, of course, pumpkin, it balances its vegetal expression with an undercurrent of subtle spice.

PRICES REFLECT THE RANGE ACROSS THE COUNTRY. SOME PRODUCTS MAY NOT BE AVAILABLE IN ALL PROVINCES.

We all scream for scary treats

Vampire Doughnuts

1. Arrange a stack of honey-glazed doughnuts on a large serving tray.

2. Use a bamboo skewer to poke two fang holes in the top of each, then dribble red gel food colouring (sold in tubes in the grocer's baking aisle) coming out of the holes and down the sides of the doughnuts.

Goblet Grave

1. Head to the craft store (or online) and pick up a silicone skull and crossbones ice cube tray.

2. Fill each cavity with plain Greek yogurt, then use an offset spatula to smooth the tops and remove any excess yogurt from the tray. Freeze until solid (overnight is best).

3. Let the cubes soften at room temperature for several minutes, then remove the ice cubes from the tray.

4. Arrange the cubes in a small bowl set over a larger bowl of crushed ice. Serve alongside goblets of grape juice.

Candied Apple Craniums

1. Wash and dry 6 apples. Insert a large frozen pop or candy stick. Set aside.

2. Place 12 ounces of white candy melts in a heat-safe bowl. Set bowl over saucepan of simmering water. Stir until the candy has melted.

3. Dunk each apple into candy melts, spooning it up the sides and over the top for an even coating. Set coated apples upright on waxed paper.

4. Use a rolling pin to roll out Tootsie Rolls until flat. Use a paring knife to cut round eyes and a heart-shaped nose from the flattened Tootsie Rolls. "Glue" the eyes and nose (mount the "heart" upside down) to the apples using piping gel or a bit of purchased frosting.

Doughnut Spider

1. Set a chocolate glazed doughnut in the centre of a large serving platter. Place a chocolate cake doughnut up against it. The glazed doughnut forms the spider's body; the cake doughnut is the head.

2. Place 2 chocolate doughnut holes on top of the cake doughnut to form eyes (use a dab of frosting to hold them in place). Top each doughnut hole with a dab of white or yellow frosting, then gently press a chocolate chip into each.

3. For the legs, arrange three sets of three chocolate doughnut holes coming off of each side of the "body" doughnut. If desired, additional frosting can be used to keep the leg doughnut holes in place.

The Saskatchewan Roughriders head west Saturday night to face the league-leading Calgary Stampeders at McMahon Stadium in what could be the CFL's most high-profile regular-season matchup.

But in a game touted as a possible West Division final preview, most of the focus has been on the clash between the teams' running backs after Roughriders star Kory Sheets said this week that he's a superior talent to Stamps counterpart Jon Cornish.

"He's going to have a good game or I'm going to have a good game," Sheets said on Thursday at Mosaic Stadium about the rivalry between the two running backs, noting he isn't concerned with any reaction from Cornish, who has mostly remained mum.

"What they (the Stampeders) got going on over there is not going to affect me," he added. "I make sure I focus on here, I focus on the Saskatchewan Roughriders."

After snapping a four-game losing streak earlier this month, the Riders have won their last three games, including a 35-14 victory at home over the B.C. Lions last weekend.

The Stamps have kept pace, however, stringing together a four-game winning streak of their own.

Something has to give on Saturday in Calgary.

"It's going to be a big game," Riders head coach Corey Chamblin said of the matchup.

"Like I told the guys, I don't think I need to hype you up (to face the Stampeders)."

With a victory, the Riders could still catch the Stamps for first place in the West — if they beat Edmonton in their last regular-season game next weekend and Calgary falls to B.C.

Kickoff on Saturday is at 5 p.m.

Young Leafs defender staying in bigs

Morgan Rielly will stay with the Leafs beyond this weekend when they face the Blue Jackets Friday and the Penguins Saturday. CLAUS ANDERSEN/GETTY IMAGES

Morgan Rielly is looking for a place to live and a roommate.

The Maple Leafs' prized rookie defenceman, all of 19, got the word Thursday morning that he had made the team and won't be returning to the Moose Jaw Warriors. Or, more to the point, the team was going to keep him past the nine-game tryout teenagers get without burning the first year of their three-year entry-level contract.

"It's a pretty good feeling," said Rielly. "But I have a lot left to prove. I have to keep working hard and keep getting better."

Quoted

"We're not guaranteeing the player is going to be here the rest of the year."

Leafs coach Randy Carlyle. If Rielly plays in 40 games this season he can speed up his eligibility towards unrestricted free agency to age 26.

The Leafs have asked Rielly to get a roommate, rather than live on his own.

"We would like him to find a roommate and move in with somebody," said Carlyle. "We feel it's imperative that a young player, 19 years old, live with somebody."

Sidney Crosby lived with Mario Lemieux. Right now, Nathan MacKinnon is living with J.S. Giguere in Colorado. With the Leafs, Tyler Bozak and Phil Kessel are roomies.

Rielly hadn't asked anyone yet Thursday. "I don't want to live with any old guys," he said. "Wait and see what happens."

Cards double down on Red Sox to even World Series

MLB playoffs. St. Louis cleans up defensively and takes advantage of Boston miscues

Michael Wacha won again in October and the St. Louis Cardinals got just enough help from Boston, beating the Red Sox 4-2 Thursday night to tie the World Series at 1-all.

Down 2-1 after David Ortiz hit a two-run homer in the sixth, the Cardinals rallied for three runs in the seventh to end Boston's nine-game winning streak in the World Series that started with a sweep of St. Louis in 2004.

Matt Carpenter's tying sacrifice fly set off a chain of Red Sox misplays. Catcher Jarrod Saltalamacchia let the wide throw home skip off his glove, then pitcher Craig Breslow made a wild toss that wound up in the Fenway Park seats. Carlos Beltran followed with an RBI single.

Game 2

Cardinals	Red Sox

Wacha improved to 4-0 this month, pretty impressive for any pitcher, let alone a 22-year-old rookie.

Trevor Rosenthal struck out the side in the ninth for a save. John Lackey took the loss.

Game 3 is Saturday night at Busch Stadium. Jake Peavy is set to start for Boston against Joe Kelly.

Wacha had already extended his scoreless streak to 18 2/3 innings — a record for a rookie in a single post-season — before Ortiz tagged him in the sixth.

A day after Ortiz homered after nearly hitting a grand slam earlier in an 8-1 romp, Big Papi connected for his fifth home run of this post-season and 17th of his career.

Dustin Pedroia drew a one-out walk and, with the Fenway Park crowd on its feet, Ortiz hit a full-count changeup over the wall in left-centre field edge.

Lackey worked around four hits in slowing the Cardinals. He pitched a day after turning 35 — it was his first Series start since 2002 when, as a rookie for the Angels, he beat Barry Bonds and San Francisco in Game 7.

Raptors extend contracts of Ross, Valanciunas

The Toronto Raptors have exercised the third-year team options on the entry-level contracts of centre Jonas Valanciunas and guard Terrence Ross, extending the deals through the 2014-15 season.

The Raptors had until next Thursday to exercise their option on both players.

The seven-foot, 257-pound Valanciunas joined the Raptors after being selected fifth overall in the 2011 NBA draft and spending the 2011-12 season playing overseas.

He was named to the 2012-13 NBA all-rookie second team after finishing the year ranked third among rookies in rebounds (6.0), blocks (1.26) and field goal percentage (.557). Valanciunas also ranked seventh among rookies averaging 8.9 points in 23.9 minutes.

A native of Utena, Lithuania, Valanciunas became the fifth rookie in franchise history to start on opening night.

Ross, a six-foot-seven, 197 pound forward, was selected eighth overall in the 2012 draft. Last season he posted averages of 6.4 points, 2.0 rebounds and 17.0 minutes in 73 games. He shot .332 (65-196) from beyond the arc and finished fifth among rookies in made three-pointers.

Manning back after injury scare

Fantasy football owners and Denver Broncos fans can rest easy: Peyton Manning is back.

Manning returned to practice Thursday after the Broncos held him out a day earlier because of a minor ankle injury he sustained in Denver's loss at Indianapolis last weekend.

It was his first skipped practice since joining the Broncos 19 months ago, the result of the pounding he took in his homecoming at Indianapolis last weekend along with the coaches' desire to give him a day's rest as the midpoint of the season approaches.

Jake Virtanen BRAD WATSON/CALGARY HITMEN/HO-THE CANADIAN PRESS

Climbing the rankings. Hitmen winger shooting for big draft year

Jake Virtanen is not recognizable to every Canadian junior hockey fan, but NHL scouts definitely know his name.

The 17-year-old Calgary Hitmen winger is expected to be among the top selections in next summer's NHL draft.

"I'd be very surprised if he wasn't," said Washington Capitals Western scout Terry Richardson. "In my opinion, he's a top 10, top 15 for sure. I don't get to see all the kids, of course, actually in Eastern Canada, but this kid's good. He's big. Strong. He's what everybody wants."

Virtanen, a New Westminster, B.C., native who grew up in the Fraser Valley communities of Langley and Abbotsford, is helping his cause this week, as he's a big reason why the Hitmen remain in first place in the WHL's Western Conference.

He has five goals in his last four games and recorded his first WHL hat trick in a 6-3 win over the Lethbridge Hurricanes on Sunday. With eight goals and four assists in 14 games, he continues to progress from a rookie season in which he generated 16 goals and 18 helpers.

"My 16-year-old season was pretty good," said Virtanen, who stands six-foot-one and weighs 210 pounds.

"I finished strong. I had a strong second half of the season. I get drafted this year, so (the draft) is in the back of my mind. It's obviously one of the biggest years of my life.

"So I'm really looking forward to (doing well) this season. It's a huge challenge for me."

Virtanen has not set any specific goals while he attempts to help the Hitmen reach the Memorial Cup, though he's hopeful for a chance to play for Canada's entry at the world junior tournament during the Christmas holidays. But he is eager to live up to his pre-draft billing.

NHL Central Scouting has listed him as a player to watch, ranking him among only seven WHL A-level skaters. Meanwhile, International Scouting Services has ranked him No. 4 on its list of top 2014 prospects.

Horoscopes

♈ Aries
March 21 - April 20
You may wish that everything in your life was perfect but if it was, you would soon grow bored. With that in mind, don't get angry if little things go wrong today.

♉ Taurus
April 21 - May 21
If you have something important to say, say it now if you want your words to have impact. However, if you're critical of someone, they might be critical of you too.

♊ Gemini
May 22 - June 21
If you know what you want today, you will find a way to get it, even though you may have no idea how to get from here to there. Neptune, planet of imagination, will guide your thoughts and your footsteps.

♋ Cancer
June 22 - July 23
Give yourself a break today, not least because the Sun in your fellow Water sign of Scorpio is going to bring remarkable new opportunities your way. The more rest you get now, the more you will accomplish later.

♌ Leo
July 24 - Aug. 23
The most important thing now is that you keep your enthusiasm level high. The planets warn that you may be tempted to take life a bit too easy and if you do then your plans will come to nothing.

♍ Virgo
Aug. 24 - Sept. 23
At times throughout the day you will wonder if you can believe what you see and hear. But, it's true: some people are behaving so badly you must have nothing to do with them.

♎ Libra
Sept. 24 - Oct. 23
You will only have time to act today. That applies especially to work and financial matters where you must follow your instincts — even if what they tell you seems strange.

♏ Scorpio
Oct. 24 - Nov. 22
Resist the urge to look back when you should be looking forward. The Sun in your sign means you can start anew, no matter how many issues are nagging at you from the past.

♐ Sagittarius
Nov. 23 - Dec. 21
You may be concerned that you did not work hard enough to iron out a relationship problem and, yes, maybe that is true, but it's too late now. The chance will come again when the time is right. Stop worrying.

♑ Capricorn
Dec. 22 - Jan. 20
Why do people seem to think and speak and act in slow motion? Whatever the reason, you have to live in the same world, so try not to get uptight. Think of your blood pressure.

♒ Aquarius
Jan. 21 - Feb. 19
Your mind may be alive with possibilities but those around you seem dead to your good ideas. You don't need their help or approval. You can get where you need to be on your own.

♓ Pisces
Feb. 20 - March 20
OK, so you made a mistake. The important question is: what did you learn from it? One thing, for sure, is that failure isn't as painful as you thought it would be. Pick yourself up, brush yourself of and keep going. SALLY BROMPTON
